Barry Taff has been investigating activity reported at a home on Cielo Drive in Beverly Hills and has been out several times before we went out together. This particular evening a British film crew had come out with another paranormal team and were doing a feature segment on this house for one of their programs back in England. Barry asked that we come along with our equipment and run our own investigation on the side. Barry had reported back to us about some VERY strange activity he himself had even experienced. For those of you who do not recognize the street name, it is the street where the original home of Sharon Tate used to be down at the end of. The house we were investigating was just down the street. The owner of the house, reported strange activity in the home. Objects being moved, his dogs acting strangely, disembodied voices, and on one incident witnessing the apparition of Jay Sebring standing at the foot of his bed while he was wide awake. This night would prove to be one of the strangest nights witnessed by outside visitors.

Upon arrival, needless to say we could see down the road to the entrance gates of the former Tate property. I say former since the property has been purchased and the original house was torn down and a new one is being built. Needless to say there was still a strangeness in the air. When we entered the home we noticed and change in the atmosphere in general. I myself noticed as I went downstairs to the lower floors a feeling of anxiousness come over me. Apparently this was common to a lot of visitors. Also it was reported that visitors would become suddenly ill or experience dizziness and fainting. Also it was reported that visitors, after leaving the location, would often be absolutely wired as if having too much coffee or sugar and not be able to settle down for a long period of time (Annie experienced this following our visit.) Some also reported that after going to sleep following their visit to the home, they experienced horrific and extremely visual nightmares.

While there we witnessed total polarity reversal, at the top of the stairwell while facing due north, the digital compass we had told us we were facing south. A report of our equipment measurements are below for you to review.

Barry had a theory that if an electrical storm were to occur that the magnetic and electrical fields would increase. And this evening wound up being the time he would get to test his theory. Approximately 7 pm a thunderstorm came into the area. Sure enough the equipment went insane. Several times our meters hit full scale deflection and several people in the house reported feelings of illness and nausea, namely the film crew and the other paranormal team. Other incidents were moving shadows, cold drafts, one member of the film crew was pushed by unseen hands, and finally, as we were ending the night David and I both witnessed a spark appear in mid air at the bottom of the stairwell as we were looking down from the top.

Here are the measurements from our instruments:

Trifield Meter- AC	nothing significant
Natural Trifield Meter DC Magnetic	Entire House: Electric- Excess of 1 KV/m, Magnetic- 10-40 Milligauss
Geomagnetometer	At staircase: 1700 milligauss (1.7 gauss), front door: nulled to 0 (zero), then reversed polarity to 280 milligauss.
Electromagnetometer	5000 milligauss
Air Ion Counter	24,000 positive Ions per cubic cm, upon entry to the house, the ions reversed to negative.
Temperature	normal

As the storm came in, here are the readings that occurred:

Natural Trifield Meter DC Magnetic	exceeded 2-3 KV/m
Geomagnetometer	Exceeded 2000 Milligauss (2 gauss), then peaked out
Electromagnetometer	5000 milligauss (5 gauss)

Our instruments were checked after the visit to ensure they were in working order and not malfunctioning, all of our equipment checked out normal.

APPENDIX II
OMAN/CIELO HOUSE ANOMALIES

Paranormal:

- Disembodied voices & footsteps
- Luminous orbs
- Apparitions of: Jay Sebring, Sharon Tate & Abigail Folger
- Apports
- People being touched/ grabbed/ shoved & hair pulled
- Physical Disorientation
- Psychokinetic Displays: Objects thrown at people

Geophysical:

- Ambient DC to low-frequency magnetic field throughout entire house ranges from 4 milligauss (mG) to 100 mG., where normal is under 2 mG.
- Compasses (analog or digital) behave oddly in that they point anywhere other than north. At front door, needle points south to southeast rather than north. At rear stairwell, same odd bearings occur, as they do in several bedrooms, bathrooms and an earthen wall room where the compass spins like a top in one corner.
- The geomagnetometer reads up to 1,700 mG. (normal is anywhere between 300-500 mG). At rear stairwell, while at the front door it drops to zero then abruptly reverses polarity several hundred points.
- During the approach of an electrical storm the geomagnetometer reached the upper end its range of 2 gauss and then overranged. The electromagnetometer read a full 5 gauss. Again, normal is between 300-500 milligauss. At the same time, DC to low-frequency electric fields in house ranged to well over 2 kilovolts (kV) per meter where normal is well below 20-30 volts/meter!
- When positive ions from Santa Ana winds crossed house boundary, they turned into negative ions!
